Ms. Ragan,

The Lost Towns Project of Anne Arundel County is actively pursuing interns to assist in exciting archaeological research. As you may know, under the direction of Al Luckenbach, Ph.D., the Lost Towns Project is a non-profit organization dedicated to the professional and multi-disciplinary discovery and preservation of Anne Arundel County's cultural resources. From the early settlement of Providence (founded 1649) to the exciting archaeological investigations at the colonial seaport of Historic London Town, (1684), we would like to invite your students to join us as interns.

Our team can offer experiences ranging from archaeological or laboratory methods, to archival research and historic preservation, to geophysical survey and data management through geographic information systems. Our program also has an extensive public programming component for those interesting in public history or archaeology.

Student interns will gain valuable work experience and research opportunities under the direction of our professional staff of archaeologists and historians. We hope that you can announce this exciting opportunity to your classes, and if you have a student, who you feel would excel through an internship, please encourage them to contact us. Also, feel free to post or distribute the enclosed brochure and poster in your department.

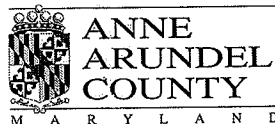

For more advanced students, small stipends may be available. Thank you for helping us share this internship program. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact us. Inquiries should be directed to myself, or to Lauren Franz, (Internship Coordinator) at 410-222-7441.

Thank you,

Al Luckenbach, Ph.D.
