Peggy Stamps is a native of Detroit, MI. Stamps began studying dance and drama at an early age and has had the opportunity to study under many world renowned choreographers and acting coaches including Sara Yarborough and Keith Lee (former soloists with The Alvin Ailey Dance Company), Robin Wilson (founding member of Urban Bush Women), Barbara Sullivan (Atlanta Dance Theatre) and Mike Lemmon (casting director, The Sixth Sense). Stamps has used her training while landing roles in Ain’t Misbehavin, A Chorus Line and as Linda Loman in Death of a Salesman. Stamps is also an accomplished product spokesperson and has appeared on cable networks in the U.S. and Canada on over 200 occasions. Under the encouragement of her mentors, Stamps began focusing on choreography and stage direction. Over the past 15 years, Stamps has choreographed and/or directed over 100 stage productions and concert works. Stamps, however, has always maintained her love for the performance of modern dance to the spiritual (the performance style danced by her first mentor). This propelled her to join the American Spiritual Ensemble in its second year. Stamps has since this time served as a solo dancer, stage director and assistant tour manager for the group. She is a freelance choreographer/director and is also an instructor of stage movement for the University of Kentucky Opera Performance Program. Stamps is a graduate of Purdue University.

NOTE FROM THE PRESENTER

When I was invited to join the American Spiritual Ensemble in 2006, I quickly learned what an immense privilege it was. Imagine three times a year being enveloped by the warmest of voices, the most generous of spirits and the poignant, stirring melodies of the American Negro Slave. Such is my experience with the American Spiritual Ensemble.

With performances in schools and churches, concert halls and cathedrals, it is the mission of the American Spiritual Ensemble to keep the Negro slave melody and its profound historical significance alive. This week marks ASE's second visit to the Salisbury area. The presence of such a group on campus is of the utmost importance. I am so thankful that my students, some of whom you will hear today, have begun to garner through study, research and performance, the vast artistic, educational, emotional and technical value of the spiritual. It is my vision that these values along with residencies by the American Spiritual Ensemble become constant.

Enjoy this concert by the American Spiritual Ensemble!

John Wesley Wright
Instructor of Voice, Salisbury University
Member of the American Spiritual Ensemble since '06
