

Here is what a recent graduate of the program has to say

“The dual-degree program offered through the University of Maryland Eastern Shore and Salisbury University is an advanced, organized and hard-working program that strives for students to obtain bachelor’s degrees in sociology and social work from two different prestigious schools in only four years. The dual-degree program gave me a good foundation in both the field of sociology and social work. It gave me positive exposure to attend an HBCU university and also a majority mainstream university. This gave me an opportunity to embrace my own culture and the ability to work with other cultures. That is a necessity for a future social worker. The dual-degree program looks great on your resume and gives you options for your future career. The dual-degree program also prepares you for continued education in graduate studies.”

About the Dual-Degree Program

The cooperative dual-degree program offered through the University of Maryland Eastern Shore and Salisbury University prepares graduates for entry-level, professional social work positions; state social work licensure; and graduate education. The program is made possible through the shared resources of the University of Maryland Eastern Shore and Salisbury University.

The program permits sociology majors at UMES to earn a Bachelor of Arts in Social Work (B.A.S.W.) in four years.

UMES applicants for the dual-degree program apply for admission to Salisbury University during the fall semester of their junior year. Applicants for admission to the program are evaluated by the Salisbury University Admissions Office as special transfer applicants; this status includes a waiver of all fees related to application and acceptance. Upon acceptance the students are matriculated at both institutions as degree-seeking students.

Frequently Asked Questions

- How can I find out more about this program?
 Contact the Social Work Program Admissions Coordinator Brenda Jorden at 410-677-6559 or bjjorden@salisbury.edu.
- When can I begin this program?
 UMES applicants for the dual-degree program can start as late as the fall of their junior year.
- How will I get to the Salisbury campus to take my classes?
 The UMES / SU shuttle is available Monday-Friday to transport students between campuses, as well as taking students to each school's University Park residence facility. All passengers must have a valid UMES or SU identification card to ride. The shuttle schedule can be found on the UMES Academic Affairs Web page.
- Are there additional costs to be in this program? Will this affect my financial aid?
 No, you pay all the usual fees and tuition as you would as a sociology major at UMES. Since you will be considered full-time at both campuses this program will not impact financial aid.
- Will I receive one degree or two upon completing this program?
 You will earn a B.A. in sociology from UMES and a B.A.S.W. from Salisbury University.
