SU has 11 Greek social organizations, four fraternities and four sororities.

The University as a Learning Community includes both classroom and out-of-classroom experiences. Among the reasons Salisbury and its graduates are so successful are the range of services and programs provided to help students attain their academic and personal goals. Student satisfaction with their educational experience results from a combination of factors, including interacting with faculty, making friends and effectively meeting the challenges of college life. The co-curriculum exists to support students with meeting those challenges.

Student programs and services exist at SU to complement the academic mission. That goal is accomplished, in part, by services, programs and staff in the offices of Student Activities, Organizations and Leadership, Student Affairs, Career and Student Counseling Services, Student Health Services, Guerrieri University Center, Multiethnic Student Services, University Police, Housing and Residence Life, Campus Recreation, University Dining Services, Athletics and New Student Experience.
Campus Recreation
The Office of Campus Recreation provided leadership for the 12th annual Sea Gull Century bike ride. $70,000 from this event was used to purchase state-of-the-art equipment for Maggs Physical Activities Center fitness rooms. The old Nautilus equipment was donated to the Wicomico County Board of Education.

e-Job Fair
Career Services held its first Virtual Job Fair in collaboration with other liberal arts institutions. This was in addition to the general, education, military and summer job fairs Career Services annually produces.

Expanding Volunteer Services
A $200,000 grant from the Corporation for National Service enabled 15 education faculty from Salisbury, Coppin State and Towson universities to develop ways to infuse service learning into their courses. At SU, 2,100 students, faculty and staff participated in volunteer service activities.

Multiethnic Student Services
Of the prospective students attending Multiethnic Student Services’ Visitation Weekend, 94 percent planned to attend SU. Some 100 students participated in one of several study abroad options, and staff developed a new student orientation option for hiking in Poland.

Keeping SU Safe
The Governor’s Crime Prevention Award was presented to University Police for the seventh time.

Residence Life
The Office of Residence Life involved 40 faculty and staff in such programs as the Faculty Fellows Program and Spring Olympics.

Broadening Focus
Programming from the Student Organization for Activity Planning (SOAP) and the Office of Student Activities, Organizations and Leadership emphasized diversity themes and increased attendance for the 55 planned events. Redesigned Guerrieri University Center space provided more visibility for staff, services and programs in support of President Dudley-Eshbach’s diversity initiatives.

Keeping Students Well
In addition to individual counseling sessions, training workshops and other presentations, Student Counseling Services established a clinical training program for graduate students in counseling and social work at Salisbury, University of Maryland Eastern Shore and University of Maryland Baltimore. An interactive Web site, with a “symptom checker” and “frequently asked questions” section and links to other health-related sites, was developed by Student Health Services.

Safe Choices
A team of student affairs’ staff and students earned a three year grant, “Safe Choices,” for their proposal for NCAA funding of alcohol education initiatives.
