Salisbury State University's Success

Salisbury State University is a comprehensive institution of higher learning offering a traditional liberal arts curriculum and a variety of pre-professional and professional programs. It has some 6,000 students in 30 undergraduate and eight graduate programs; these students represent some 33 states and 29 countries.

The University’s four schools are endowed, a rarity among public institutions. SSU is rated in the top 10 public regional universities in the North by U.S. News & World Report, was featured in The Princeton Review’s Best 331 Colleges, and was cited by Kiplinger’s magazine as being in the top 10 percent of public colleges and universities in the nation.

But wait, there’s more. In 2000, SSU celebrates the 75th anniversary of its founding, and we continue to build on our long history of success. The Franklin P. Perdue School of Business has national accreditation for its undergraduate and graduate management programs, something only 25 percent of the country’s business schools can claim. The Samuel W. and Marilyn C. Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies recently received accreditation from the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE). The future is equally bright, as SSU adds the new Scarborough Leadership Center for students and a new science building.

From the West: Follow Route 50 East into Salisbury. Take a right immediately after the bridge onto Mill Street (fifth light in Salisbury). Continue straight through the two intersections. From the North: Follow Route 13 South into Salisbury. Follow Business Route 13 (rather than the bypass) to the city and proceed four miles to the campus which is located on the right. Turn right onto West College Avenue and left on Camden Avenue. Take the first left on Dogwood Drive and turn into the parking lot on the left.

Internships

It’s a win-win situation: Students win as they get an opportunity to apply their learning, and employers benefit from an extra pair of hands, new expertise, and a preview look at a potential employee. Internships can be a great trial run for employers and students to see if a fit exists.

Our Students Are Our Strength

SSU sets high standards for incoming students, then works with the students to help them realize even greater achievements. Our students graduate at the head of the class: SSU students lead the University System of Maryland in four-, five- and six-year graduation rates. Quite simply, we start with the best and we make them even better.

Our students excel not only in the classroom, but in activities all over campus including sports and campus organizations, and in activities such as service learning and volunteer efforts that benefit the community. Salisbury State is a close-knit campus whose students are well prepared to be productive citizens and employees. A recent on-campus survey revealed that 97 percent of our alumni would still make SSU their top choice for higher education. One year after graduation, 90 percent are employed in a job that requires a college degree.

Undergraduate degrees are offered in accounting, art, biology, business administration, chemistry, communication arts, computer science, economics, elementary education, English, environmental health, fine arts, French, geography, history, liberal arts, management information systems, mathematics, medical technology, music, nursing, philosophy, physical education, physics, political science, psychology, respiratory therapy, social work, sociology and Spanish.

Graduate programs are offered in applied health physiology, English, education, history, business administration, public school administration, teaching and nursing.

In today’s world, employers want students not only to be educated, but to have enhanced that education with experience. At Salisbury State University, students are often required but always encouraged to expand their experience with volunteer hours, summer and part-time jobs, service learning activities, travel and study abroad, internships, and leadership and involvement on campus.

These experiences, coupled with excellent classroom instruction, arm our students with the skills demanded by employers today: interpersonal, teamwork, communication, analytical, problem solving, computer, leadership, adaptability, flexibility, knowledge of another language, cross-cultural skills, and the desire to be a lifelong learner.

At Salisbury State University, you’ll find stellar students who have received a fine education, both inside and outside the classroom. It’s an education that has prepared them to be an asset to your organization.

Salisbury State University has become one of the top schools for our hiring needs, and Career Services offers an array of valuable services. The spring job fair is always a great event, with a terrific turnout of students who are very well-prepared. There is a very organized on-campus recruitment program, online help from JobCo and Career Services helps out with both our internship and our management trainee program. They really get the students prepared for their job search, from resume writing to interviewing workshops.
