

Angelica Hansen

Position, Company: International Execution & Supply Chain Manager, Perdue Agribusiness

Angie Hansen serves as the International Execution and Supply Chain Manager at Perdue Agribusiness, where she has dedicated 15 years to advancing the company's international operations. Over the course of her career, she has gained extensive experience managing global logistics, building strong supplier relationships, and collaborating across cultures to ensure efficient and sustainable trade.

Angie earned her bachelor's degree in international business, with a minor in Microbiology and Spanish at Auburn University is committed to mentoring the next generation of leaders. She provides students with guidance on pursuing global career paths, strengthening leadership capabilities, and successfully navigating corporate environments.

Originally from Panama City, Panama, Angie brings a global perspective to both her professional and personal life. She enjoys traveling, exploring new cultures, and staying active through running. She is also a devoted mother of two children who attend St. Francis de Sales and hopefully Salisbury University.