

Henry Hunt III

Position, Company: Head of Linehaul Transportation Performance, Amazon

Born and raised in Baltimore, Maryland, Henry Hunt serves as Head of Linehaul Transportation Performance for Amazon Transportation Services, where he leads the strategy and execution of Amazon's first- and third-party (1PL & 3PL) transportation network across the U.S. and Canada. In this role, he oversees the performance of more than 50,000 carriers, driving innovation in supply chain and logistics execution while ensuring the movement of over 250,000 shipments weekly. Widely recognized as a builder and innovator, Henry is credited with designing Amazon's 3PL Performance Strategy for Inbound, Intermodal, Grocery, Middle Mile and Global Mile networks. His leadership has consistently delivered record-breaking on-time performance, optimized global operations, and pioneered automation and performance management tools now used across Amazon's transportation ecosystem. His career also spans leadership roles at Macy's and Target, where he gained deep expertise in retail operations, omni-channel fulfillment, and multi-unit P&L management.

Henry earned his Bachelor of Science in Information Systems from Salisbury University in 2013, where his journey in business and technology began. He is a Dawson 549 Fellow, a VP-nominated program at Amazon that incubates breakthrough solutions to global business challenges, and is a public speaker selected to represent Amazon in leadership forums including Amazon's Executive Leadership Committee.

Beyond corporate leadership, Henry is the founder of Opulence Golf, a lifestyle golf brand designed to merge inclusivity and fashion, reinforcing the belief that golf is for everyone. Henry and his wife, Shalonda, are proud parents to their 5-yr old daughter, Aniya. Together, they enjoy traveling the world and cheering on their hometown Baltimore Ravens.

Henry's journey reflects a deep commitment to vision, innovation, and servant leadership—values he now brings to the Perdue School of Business Career Advisory Board to help inspire and shape the next generation of leaders.