The Honors College offers enriched academic opportunities for motivated students through curricular offerings, extracurricular activities and applied learning experiences. The College fosters close individual contact between students and faculty and brings together engaged undergraduate students with varied interests to explore and enrich their overall academic university experience. In addition, the Honors College seeks to provide an intellectual environment where students pursue inquiry, explore curiosity, exhibit creativity and engage in undergraduate research all while engaging larger communities on the Eastern Shore and beyond. Honors courses and activities are intended to enhance other educational opportunities available to Salisbury University students and meet national expectations for Honors education.

Salisbury University’s Honors Program began in 1980 with 20 freshman students who met in the back of the University gymnasium and took a series of history, English and philosophy courses. In 1996, the Honors Program was renamed for University president Thomas E. Bellavance, shortly after moving to its current home in a renovated house on the corner of Camden Avenue and Loblolly Lane. The curriculum at that time centered on a team-taught great books series of courses; it has since changed to include dynamic issue-based courses that fulfill General Education requirements. The Honors director was, at first, the sole faculty member attached to the Honors Program. Founding director Dr. Tony Whall taught in English and Honors with a two-course download to administer the program. In 1994, the program gained an assistant director whose duties focused on student activities and mentoring; this faculty member received a course download for these services. In 2006, the program gained a 10-hour share of an administrative assistant.

Beginning in the 2000s, the Honors Program began hosting a Living Learning Community with 20 students. By 2010, the program offered two communities that included 36 students in Manokin Hall (the building was shared with other Living Learning Communities). Beginning in August 2016, the Honors Program transitioned to the current Honors College. The College admits between 120 and 150 new freshmen each year and serves more than 500 students. It houses freshman Living Learning Communities and Sophomore Living Learning Communities.

The Thomas E. Bellavance Honors Program provides annual scholarships for incoming freshmen that range from $500 to $1,000 (renewable up to four years). Students are selected based on academic accomplishments and a written essay that is part of their application to the Honors College. Beginning in 2013, the recipients of these scholarships were designated the name “Bellavance Scholars” in recognition of Thomas and Elizabeth Bellavance, who were great supporters of the Honors Program and in whose honor the endowment for these scholarships is named. Bellavance Scholars are required to maintain a 3.5 GPA and remain active in the Honors College and Thomas E. Bellavance Honors Program, demonstrating determination and self-motivation are attractive to recruiters in virtually every field, giving you a competitive edge in the professional world or in applying to graduate programs nationwide.

The Honors Advantage

- Small classes (no more than 20 students)
- Tailored courses on interesting and unique subjects
- Opportunities to work closely with faculty members on individualized research
- Opportunity to participate in freshman and sophomore Honors Living Learning Communities
- Priority class registration
- Access to Honors advising
- Financial support for conference travel to regional and national conferences
- Scholarships

Freshman Admission

The Honors College seeks applications from high school students with strong grades, a love of learning and an interest in small, discussion-based classes. Strong academic performance, leadership and extracurricular interests are all considered in Honors admission. To apply to the Honors College, students must submit an application via the Honors website.

Transfer and Current Student Admission

Transfer students coming to SU may apply for admission to the Honors College when they have a total of 48 credits with a minimum grade point average of 3.5.

Scholarships

The Thomas E. Bellavance Honors Program provides annual scholarships for incoming freshmen that range from $500 to $1,000 (renewable up to four years). Students are selected based on academic accomplishments and a written essay that is part of their application to the Honors College.

successful progress toward graduating with full University honors. They are recognized each year at the Honors Spring Banquet and their names appear on a large plaque that is publicly displayed in the Honors Center.

In addition, the Honors College grants between 12 and 15 Director’s Fellowships to incoming freshmen each year. The fellowships were established to recognize exceptional incoming freshman students who demonstrate outstanding academic achievement and the promise for leadership and success on the Salisbury University campus. Fellowships range from $1,000 to $2,000 and are renewable a total of four years. For consideration, applicants need to apply to the Honors College by the priority deadline. Students are selected based on their academic accomplishments, as well as an additional essay. Recipients are decided by the Honors Admissions Committee, comprised of the faculty director of the Thomas E. Bellavance Honors Program and the director of admissions. Director’s Fellows receive priority placement in one of the Honors Program’s freshman Living Learning Communities. Students are required to maintain a 3.25 GPA and remain active in the Thomas E. Bellavance Honors Program, demonstrating successful progress toward graduating with full University honors. They are recognized each year at the Honors Spring Banquet and their names appear on a large plaque that is publicly displayed in the Honors Center.

HONORS PROGRAMS

Students admitted into the Honors College have the choice between three Honors Programs: the Thomas E. Bellavance Honors Program, the Business Honors Program, and the Richard Henson Honors Program in Science and Mathematics.

Thomas E. Bellavance Honors Program

The Thomas E. Bellavance Honors Program is housed within the University Honors College and is designed to bring together high-achieving students and dedicated faculty in a small University environment. It offers motivated students who are serious about their intellectual growth a variety of special enhanced classes. The program fosters close individual contact between students and faculty and brings together talented students from across campus. Honors courses and extracurricular activities are intended to enrich and complement other educational opportunities and programs available to Salisbury University students.

Business Honors Program

The Business Honors Program provides admitted students with greater networking and mentorship opportunities, specialized global programs, enhanced entrepreneurship experiences, enriched courses, and meaningful access to local community leaders to accelerate their personal and professional development.

Students are admitted to the Business Honors Program based on current University Honors criteria. To graduate with a Business Honors designation, students must obtain a degree from the Perdue School of Business.

Richard A. Henson Honors Program in Science and Mathematics

The Henson Honors Program in Science and Mathematics provides admitted students with enriched math and science courses with emphasis on critical thinking, enhanced undergraduate research experiences and unique opportunities to engage in career-advancing activities, while providing them with the flexibility to complete the major’s program requirements in a timely manner. Students are admitted to the Henson Honors Program based on current University Honors criteria.

HONR 312: Honors Research/Creative Project
In this one-credit independent study course, a student develops a research or creative project suitable for presentation at an undergraduate research conference or equivalent public venue. Students work one-on-one with a faculty mentor from a department of their choosing and with Honors faculty to complete and present this independent project. Honors faculty members assist with arrangements and accompany students to presentations at Honors conferences.

HONR 490: Honors Thesis Preparation
Honors thesis preparation is a one-credit course designed to set up the framework and faculty support for the project. This is a required course for those who wish to complete a thesis.

HONR 495: Honors Thesis
The Honors thesis is generally a four-credit course of independent study, which culminates in substantial original research, scholarly or creative work. Students may apply for permission to substitute another department’s thesis or independent study course for HONR 495. The thesis must be completed with a grade of B or better to fulfill the Honors program requirement.

Study Abroad and Internship Option
Three or four credits from an approved study abroad course or an internship experience may take the place of one HONR 311 course.

Curriculum Requirements for Graduating from the Bellavance Honors Program
Students who enter SU as freshman and transfer students who have been active in a post-secondary Honors program are eligible to participate in Bellavance University Honors.
