Professional writers, editors and graphic designers are available to assist the campus community with their publications needs for University-sponsored activities. For a small fee, design services are available for the production of t-shirts, give-aways, brochures, newsletters, posters, programs, etc. Pending office workload, students can print from disk or hard copy on the office’s color copier (price varies with job complexity). Both PC and Macintosh formats are supported. Publications staff members can also provide guidance on appropriate use of copyrighted materials. According to University policy, all materials that may be viewed by an off-campus audience must be created and/or approved through Publications.
