About the Program

SU's Africana Studies Program promotes understanding, appreciation and advancement of Africana people and culture. The rich diversity of the program delves into the history, art, politics, innovation, environment, and so much more about diverse people of African heritage on the continent of Africa and in the Caribbean, North America, Latin America, Europe, Asia, and around the world. Broaden your horizons and empower yourself with knowledge that you can take forward into the rest of your life – by fostering understanding of others and the world around you.

Opportunities Beyond the Classroom

At SU, you experience a more inclusive education that incorporates civic engagement, internship, research and professional development opportunities – so you can get out there and make a difference in the world now. Students may study abroad through SU's connections with the University of Ghana at Cape Coast or work alongside faculty as they pursue professional research and scholarship in Kenya and West Africa.

The rich opportunities in this program are designed to give you a heightened awareness of multiple perspectives and unheard narratives, addressing inequality and social justice, and preparing yourself for an interconnected global workforce.

A Diverse Curriculum

What's exciting about the Africana Studies Program at SU is how broad and diverse it is. No matter what your background or interests, an understanding of Africana culture can enrich opportunities in your field. Every day in the program is exciting, as you have the opportunity to take classes in areas including:

- Anthropology
- Art
- Conflict analysis and dispute resolution
- Communication
- Environmental studies
- Geography
- History
- Language
- Literature
- Music
- Philosophy
- Political science
- Psychology
- Sociology
