

English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) Minor

English Department • Fulton School of Liberal Arts

Support Multilingual Learners in Your Classroom with an ESOL Minor at SU!

WHY SU'S ESOL MINOR?

- Up-to-date training customized to local and national needs
- Experienced, international faculty from linguistically diverse backgrounds
- In-depth exploration of topics including language acquisition, bilingualism, instruction, and assessment for multilingual learners and ESOL reading, writing, listening and speaking

Course Requirements

The ESOL minor requires all students to complete a literature course as well a course studying language (ENGL 240) or the principles of linguistics (ENGL 430). In addition, students choose from courses that explore instruction for multilingual learners and ESOL reading, writing, listening, and speaking; possible course topics include:

- Educational Linguistics
- ESOL Tests and Measurements
- Literacy and ESOL Reading
- Language and Culture
- Literacy and ESOL Writing
- ESOL Program Development
- Bilingualism
- Second Language Acquisition
- Literacy and ESOL Listening
- Literacy and ESOL Speaking
- English Structure for Educators
- Issues and Approaches in English Language Teaching
- Inclusive EL Instruction for Multilingual Learners
- Current Approaches in ESOL Instruction
- Topics in Linguistics and Language Learning

Students are encouraged to vary their course selection so that they experience both a method/assessment course and one covering second language acquisition or bilingualism.

For specific minor requirements, visit the online catalog: catalog.salisbury.edu

CONTACT INFORMATION

For information, contact:

Dr. Derya Kulavuz-Onal • dxkulavuz-onal@salisbury.edu

Make Tomorrow Yours

salisbury.edu/english