How did you spend your nights as a Salisbury student?

Thinking back on my time at Salisbury, one memory stands out vividly: the legendary Halo LAN parties in Chester Hall. It was a simpler time, back when we were all freshmen, and the dorm buzzed with the raw, unfiltered energy of new beginnings. Someone would yell, "Halo tonight!" and within minutes our rooms became a chaotic network hub of Xboxes, extension cords snaked across the carpet, and laughter. SU wasn't just a place where I earned a degree; it was where I truly discovered my potential. Salisbury provided the perfect environment to grow, lead, and build lifelong connections. It's a place where you're empowered to not only learn, but to lead.

SU Again Named 'Best for Vets' by 'Military Times'

Salisbury University again has been named a "Best For Vets" school by Military Times. Each year, the national publication surveys programs for veterans at colleges and universities throughout the U.S.

"Our veterans have given so much to us and to their country. It is our honor to assist them in the next step of their lives and careers," said SU President Carolyn Ringer Lepre. "We pride ourselves on offering support services to help our veterans and military-affiliated family members reach their educational and professional goals."
