Salisbury Abroad: Integration

Salisbury Abroad semesters can be integrated into any four-year degree. Each major is different and some majors are more flexible than others. Start planning early to integrate a Salisbury Abroad semester into your college education!

ACADEMIC INTEGRATION

Junior Year
During the junior years, SU students can choose specific Salisbury Abroad semester programs that are built right into the student’s area of specialization:
• Major courses
• Minor courses

Freshman-Sophomore Years
Students in any major can integrate a Salisbury Abroad semester during their first two years:
• General Education courses
• Major prerequisite courses
• Minor courses

Senior Year
In many majors, students can integrate an internship or undergraduate research project with advanced courses in the major or minor during a Salisbury Abroad semester. Such an approach can make a significant contribution to a student’s first resume or graduate school application:
• Internship
• Major courses
• Minor courses
• Research Project

FINANCIAL INTEGRATION

Integrating a Salisbury Abroad semester into your degree is affordable:
• Salisbury Abroad semester costs often are comparable to semester costs in Salisbury
• All current financial aid transfers for any SU partner program
• Financial aid is available

SALISBURY ABROAD: INTEGRATION
Salisbury Abroad: Chile

HIGHLIGHTS

- Earn credits in business, Spanish or Latin American studies
- Study in Chile for about the same cost as a semester at Salisbury
- Live with a host family to gain a richer understanding of Chilean culture and improve your Spanish
- Gain insights into Latin America while living along the beautiful Pacific coast in one of Latin America’s most dynamic economies

Business Studies: Students from the Perdue School of Business can select from a rich curriculum in business within a Latin American setting. As one of the very few Latin American business schools with AACSB accreditation, business students can easily count their upper-level business courses for their majors in the Perdue School, making the Chile semester an ideal choice for junior and senior business majors. All business students should contact the Perdue School of Business for more information before applying for the Salisbury Abroad: Chile semester program.

Spanish Studies: Students can complete coursework towards the minor and major in Spanish at SU during a semester in Chile. All upper-level courses count toward the minor and the major. Courses are offered in Spanish.

Latin American Studies: Students can complete a maximum of four out of the five courses required toward the interdisciplinary Latin American studies minor at SU with one semester in Chile. Courses are offered in English and/or Spanish. For more information on the Latin American Studies Minor including a checklist, see the Area Studies Minor website.

The Salisbury Abroad: Chile program allows Salisbury University students the opportunity to take courses taught in English in business in Latin America and Latin American studies alongside courses at all levels in Spanish language, literature and culture. The cost of the program for tuition, room and board with a Chilean family is equivalent to the costs for one semester in Salisbury.

Chile is a beautiful South American nation with a rich cultural history. It is world-renown for its ski resorts in the snow-capped Andes Mountains and its popular wines cultivated in the shadows of these same mountains. The city of Viña del Mar is located approximately 1 1/2 hours from the capital of Santiago and is a popular Pacific Coast beach resort. Infrastructure within Chile is well developed and there are opportunities to explore the many facets of this Latin American nation during a semester of study.

CLASSES

Students may spend either a fall or spring semester in Chile and choose from among a selection of courses taught in English in business and/or Latin American studies as well as a selection of courses taught in Spanish on Spanish language, culture and literature.

Salisbury Abroad: China

HIGHLIGHTS
• Immerse yourself in Chinese culture and dramatically improve your Chinese language proficiency
• Spend a semester or year in the beautiful city of Anqing – near the heart of ancient China
• Receive Chinese, modern foreign language and history credits for classwork
• Live in a residence hall on campus

The Salisbury Abroad: Anqing, China program offers students the opportunity to spend a semester in one of the world’s most ancient civilizations and one of the 21st century’s political and economic powerhouses. SU students study Chinese language alongside courses in Chinese history and culture in English in the ancient and modern city of Anqing, Anhui province. Students pay their regular SU tuition and fees and the equivalent of room and board at SU for the same services in China.

CLASSES
All students take two courses of intensive Chinese language alongside courses in English on Chinese history and culture. Students earn SU credits and GPA, not transfer credits. Two of the courses may be applied to General Education credits.

GRADES AND CREDITS
Full-time equivalent requirement: All students are responsible to make sure they are taking the number of courses/modules that are equivalent to 12 SU credits (or more) during their study abroad semester (fall or spring) at the host institution.
Co-Op Program Credits: Students on this program are assigned grades and credits by the host institution. SU transfers credits and grades. SU GPA is calculated.

HOST INSTITUTION
Anqing Normal University is a comprehensive university of approximately 15,000 students offering undergraduate degrees in 39 majors and four different graduate degrees in areas as disparate as humanities, education, economics and science. The university has a long and illustrious history. In 1897, the Jing Fu Academy of Classical Learning, (established in 1652), moved to Anqing, marking the beginning of the university’s history in Anqing. Over the next 100 years, the university evolved through many changes until the founding of the Anqing Teachers College in 1980. The older Linghu campus remains on the southern bank of Linghu Lake with buildings from the original Jing Fu Academy still in use. The new Longshan campus was opened in 2004 and is located in the Town of Great Dragon Mountain in the northern suburbs of Anqing. It is the largest gated University campus in Anhui Province.

PROGRAM TRAVEL

Students fly in to Shanghai before continuing on to Anqing. During the semester there are ample opportunities for travel anywhere in China. Anqing airport offers flights throughout the country. The capital of Anhui province, Hefei, is two hours away by bus. From Hefei, low-cost, high-speed rail service is available to the historic former capital of Nanjing and to Shanghai. Anqing itself is full of opportunities to discover both the new and the traditional China. City attractions include the Huanmei Opera, Zhengfeng Pagoda and Yingjiang Temple. In the Anhui countryside within a day’s travel from Anqing, students can visit Mount Huangshan, famous for its towering pines and hot springs, and Mount Jiuhua, one of four holy Buddhist mountains in China.

CITY OF ANQING

The city of Anqing was originally founded during the Han Dynasty in 200 BC. For 170 years starting during the Qing Dynasty in the mid 1700s through the early years of the People’s Republic, Anqing was the capital city and the center of Anhui provincial politics, economy and culture. Today, Anqing remains a bustling metropolis of 6 million. It is strategically located in the southwestern part of Anhui province, at the central, lower reaches of the Yangtze River, where the three provinces – Anhui, Hubei and Jiangxi – meet. Anqing is a garden-like Chinese city with a rich national historical and cultural legacy. Over one third of Anqing’s surface area is populated with mountains, rivers and lakes.

The Salisbury Abroad: Costa Rica program allows students to spend a semester in Costa Rica and choose from a selection of courses taught in English in business and/or Latin American studies as well as a wide range of courses taught in Spanish on Spanish language, culture and literature. The cost of the program for tuition, room and board with a Costa Rican family is equivalent to the costs for one semester in Salisbury.

Costa Rica is a stunning Central American nation with coastlines on the Pacific and the Caribbean. Although usually known for its beaches, Costa Rica also offers a great variety of landscapes with volcanoes and rainforest, as well as a vast biodiversity. The university is located in Barrio Tournón, a nice neighborhood within walking distance to downtown San José, the capital city of Costa Rica.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Earn credits in business, Spanish, Latin American studies or international studies
- Take courses taught in English that are integrated into many majors at SU
- Study in Costa Rica for about the same cost as a semester at SU
- Live with a host family to gain a richer understanding of Costa Rican culture and improve your Spanish
- Gain insights into Central America while living in San José, the capital of Costa Rica

CLASSES

Students take four courses as part of the exchange but can take additional courses for an extra fee.

Business Studies: Students from the Perdue School of Business can select from a choice of six pre-approved classes within a Central American setting. Because the courses are already incorporated in the curriculum, business students can easily count their upper-level business courses for their majors in the Perdue School, making the Costa Rica semester an ideal choice for junior and senior business majors. All business students should contact the Perdue School of Business for more information before applying for the Salisbury Abroad: Costa Rica semester program.

Spanish Studies: Students can complete coursework toward the minor and major in Spanish at SU during a semester in Costa Rica. All upper-level courses count toward the minor and the major. Courses are offered in Spanish.

International Relations: Students can complete a maximum of four out of the five courses required toward the interdisciplinary Latin American Studies minor at SU with one semester in Costa Rica. Courses are offered in English and/or Spanish. For more information on the Latin American Studies minor, including a checklist, see the area studies minor website.

HOST INSTITUTION

The Universidad Latinoamericana de Ciencia y Tecnología (ULACIT) is a private bilingual university founded in 1987. Although it is a relatively new institution, ULACIT is recognized as one of the best universities in the region and one of the most prestigious in Latin America. The University offers its nearly 3,000 students (with about 15 percent international students) more than 69 different majors from which to choose.

HOUSING

Students live with carefully selected Costa Rican families and experience the local culture firsthand. All homestays also include full board (three meals a day) as well as airport pick-up and drop-off. The stay with a host family provides an incredible way to gain insight into Costa Rican life and tradition, and it is a great addition to the learning experience.

CITY OF SAN JOSÉ

San José is the capital city of Costa Rica. Although the San José Canton has a population of just over 288,000, the metropolitan area counts a third of the country’s population, and the city center attracts more than a million people daily but is still one of the safest cities in the region. San José lays in the Central Valley region of the country, between volcanoes in the north and the Talamanca Mountains in the south. In addition to being the nation’s center for political and economic activities, San José is one of the country’s predominant cultural centers as well as a major transportation hub for the rest of the country.

Salisbury Abroad: Ecuador

HIGHLIGHTS

• Latin American studies and Spanish studies students earn SU GPA credits in Spanish, anthropology, art, English, music, political science or business
• Study in Ecuador for about the same cost as a semester at Salisbury
• Live with a host family to gain a richer understanding of Ecuadorian culture and improve your Spanish
• Gain insights into Latin America while living in the Andes mountains and next to the Equator

The Salisbury Abroad: Ecuador program provides Salisbury University students with the opportunity to study in the beautiful colonial city of Cuenca, Ecuador, nestled high in the Andes mountains. Students have the chance to study the Spanish language or Latin American studies while studying in Ecuador for one semester. The cost of the program is equivalent to one semester of study in Salisbury. Since 1994, Salisbury University has partnered with the Centers for Interamerican Studies (CEDEI) in Cuenca, Ecuador, to provide high-quality study abroad experiences in Latin America. Ecuador is a diverse country ethnically, biologically, and economically. It has been shaped by its Native American, European, and African roots. Ecuador adopted the U.S. dollar as its national currency in 2000. As a secure destination, rich in history and culture, and ideal in climate, Ecuador has seen an increase in study abroad students from the United States of approximately 30 percent per year during the past few years.

CLASSES

Students may spend either the fall or spring semester at the CEDEI. In either semester, students may choose from a selection of courses taught in English and/or Spanish on a variety of topics in Latin American studies. All students complete a mandatory intensive Spanish language course based on their current level of Spanish. All students also complete a semester-long cultural journal based on their out-of-classroom learning experiences. The entire semester earns 16 credits. The credits are for SU courses and earn SU GPA. They are not transfer credits. The Salisbury Abroad: Ecuador program can be combined with one additional course taught back in Salisbury either before or after the semester abroad to earn the interdisciplinary minor in Latin American studies.

HOST INSTITUTION

Founded in 1992, in recognition of the 500th anniversary of the meeting of the Old and New Worlds, the CEDEI is a not-for-profit institution of higher learning dedicated to the study of American languages and cultures. It is accredited by the Ministry of Education of Ecuador and co-sponsors programs with several colleges and universities in the United States. With a population of 400,000, Cuenca is the third largest city in Ecuador behind the port city of Guayaquil and the capital, Quito. Cuenca is nestled high in the Andes mountains at an altitude over 8,000 feet. Located south of the equator in southern Ecuador, it is a gateway to the Amazon rainforest and the Andes mountain range.
Ecuador, the climate is temperate throughout the year with warm sunny days and cool mountain nights. A UNESCO world heritage city, Cuenca has preserved its Spanish colonial roots with quaint cobblestone streets and colonial Spanish architecture. It also reflects the strong Native American culture of the Andean region.

GRADES AND CREDITS

Full-time equivalent requirement: All students are responsible to make sure they are taking the number of courses/modules that are equivalent to 12 SU credits (or more) during their study abroad semester (fall or spring) at the host institution.

Co-Op Program Credits: Students on this program earn SU grades and SU credits just as if the courses were offered on campus. SU GPA is calculated.

HOUSING

Students live with an Ecuadorian host family and experience the hospitality of Latin American culture firsthand. Most families have housed students from Salisbury University for 17 years. These families play an active role in providing a rich intercultural and personal experience for Salisbury Abroad: Cuenca, Ecuador students. Students have the opportunity to learn from their family whether speaking in Spanish, discussing life in Ecuador, learning about new foods, observing home life or playing video games with younger host siblings.

PROGRAM TRAVEL

Included in the costs of the program are short field trips to the Cañari and Inca ruins at Ingapirca, Cajas National Park and several Andean villages. There are a number of optional excursions at additional cost, including week-long study tours to the Galapagos Islands and a study tour to Peru that includes a visit to the modern metropolis of Lima, the ancient Inca capital of Cuzco and the Lost City of Machu Picchu. Both excursions are optional and cost approximately $2,000 per trip.

In addition to program-sponsored travel, Ecuador provides a convenient launching point for individual explorations of all of South America. Inexpensive airfare is available from Quito or Guayaquil, Ecuador, to the great metropolises of South America including Lima, Santiago, Buenos Aires, Montevideo and Rio de Janeiro.

Salisbury Abroad: England

HIGHLIGHTS

- Experience the exquisite and cosmopolitan city of London
- Study at the world-class Brunel University with students from around the globe
- Communication arts and sociology students can participate in an exchange where they study for the same price as a semester at SU
- Open to students of all majors

Salisbury University and the Brunel University, London, England, engage in the exchange of students and faculty. While British students from Brunel study a variety of disciplines at SU, SU students can spend a semester or year studying a variety of disciplines at the Brunel campus in West London. SU students continue to pay their tuition and fees at SU as always, and are charged no tuition at Brunel. The number of exchange slots for SU students is limited to two per semester and must be communication arts or sociology majors. SU students not selected for one of the competitive exchange slots, regardless of major, are able to spend a semester or year at Brunel in London as fee-paying study abroad students.

CLASSES

Each semester, SU students choose three different academic modules at the Brunel University. It is recommended that students have up to six modules approved by SU prior to departure. This will allow the student the maximum flexibility upon arrival in London. Each module is generally equivalent to 5-6 SU credits for a total of 15-18 credits per semester. Modules for exchange students are currently only available in communications, journalism and sociology. SU fee-based study abroad students may select modules in a wide variety of disciplines including: music, economics/business, journalism, screen media, English, psychology, history, political science, social anthropology, drama, sociology and sport sciences.

For a full listing of available classes go to: www.brunel.ac.uk/international/exchanges-and-study-abroad/study-abroad-programme/course-choices

Availability of classes is dependent upon the course schedule of each semester.

GRADES AND CREDITS

Full-time equivalent requirement:

All students are responsible to make sure they are taking the number of courses/modules that are equivalent to 12 SU credits (or more) during their study abroad semester (fall or spring) at the host institution.

Transfer Credits: Students on this program earn transfer credits. Students must earn the equivalent of C or better in the host institution’s program. No SU GPA is calculated.

HOST INSTITUTION

Brunel is a world-class university based in Uxbridge, West London. Now over 40 years old, their mission has been to combine academic rigor with the practical, entrepreneurial and imaginative approach.
pioneered by their namesake Isambard Kingdom Brunel. The big plus of living in a campus-based university is that the majority of your needs are catered for on site, including the library and computer centre, academic and teaching buildings, welfare services, catering and social facilities, and even the halls of residence, if you are living in university accommodation. The university is just a 20-minute walk – or a short bus ride – from Uxbridge underground station, so it is a straightforward journey into the center of London. There is also a night bus that can bring you from central London to the edge of the campus. The town of Uxbridge itself, which still has buildings dating back to its time as a Georgian market town, is a thriving commercial and business center.

 SU students can earn four of five courses for the interdisciplinary minor in European studies during one semester at the Brunel University. For more information on the European Studies minor, see the area studies minors website.

HOUSING
Housing options at Brunel University are similar to those in Salisbury. SU students at Brunel University can apply for on-campus housing or can work with the Off-Campus Housing Office to explore opportunities to live in neighborhoods surrounding Brunel in West London. Because of Brunel’s strategic location in West London, there is an abundance of housing options. For more information, check out the “Accommodations” website for on-campus housing and the “Living Off Campus” website.

COST
Sociology and communications arts students that are Maryland residents are automatically considered for the competitive exchange spot(s). If selected, students pay their regular semester tuition costs. In-state students of all other programs and students not selected for the exchange pay tuition of approximately $9,763.
Salisbury Abroad: Estonia

HIGHLIGHTS

• Study in beautiful Estonia, strategically located within northern Europe
• Take classes in biology, chemistry, math, computer science, law, philosophy, history, political science, English, psychology, Estonian and Russian language, education, business, accounting, economics, and more
• Live and study in Europe at the globally recognized University of Tartu for a fraction of the cost of many other destinations
• Live in residence halls with students from all around the globe

Salisbury University students have the opportunity to study at the University of Tartu and spend a semester in the historical northern European college town of Tartu, Estonia. Estonia is strategically located on the edge of the Baltic Sea in northeast Europe. Helsinki, Finland; Stockholm, Sweden; and St. Petersburg, Russia are all less than a one-hour flight from the capital city of Tallinn. The Baltic region is a growing economic powerhouse in Northeastern Europe, enjoying vibrant democracies and high standards of living. The historical and cultural meeting of Europe and the West with Russia and the East make Estonia a fascinating destination for a semester abroad.

CLASSES

Students may spend either the fall or spring semester at University of Tartu. Final course offerings for each semester will be determined the semester prior. All of the courses are taught in English. Courses count toward academic programs at Salisbury University as indicated by those programs. For a full listing go to: www.ut.ee/en/courses-taught-english.

Availability of classes is dependent upon the course schedule of each semester.

GRADES AND CREDITS

Full-time equivalent requirement: All students are responsible to make sure they are taking the number of courses/modules that are equivalent to 12 SU credits (or more) during their study abroad semester (fall or spring) at the host institution.

Transfer Credits: Students on this program earn transfer credits. Students must earn the equivalent of C or better in the host institution’s program. No SU GPA is calculated.

HOST INSTITUTION

The University of Tartu was founded in 1632 by the King of Sweden Gustav II Adolph. It is the largest and most comprehensive university in Estonia producing more than 70 percent of the Ph.D.s in the country. Ranked as one of the top 400 universities in the world, the University of Tartu is one of the most venerable centers of education and research in northern Europe. Tartu is the second largest city in Estonia, with a population of 100,000. Twenty percent of the residents of Tartu are college students. Nestled on the banks of the River Emajõgi, Tartu is considered the cultural and intellectual center of the nation. Because of the concentration of college students in this historic town, Tartu is known for its active nightlife with clubs, bars and restaurants for the young population.

HOUSING
While in classes in Tartu, students will stay in a double room at the student residence hall in the center of the town. Each double room is part of a quad of double rooms that share a common kitchen facility (refrigerator, sink, stove, oven), bathrooms and showers in apartment-style living. Board is not included with housing; however, there are grocery stores in close proximity to the dormitory. Housing is included in the program costs.

PROGRAM TRAVEL
Program travel on the Salisbury Abroad: Estonia program depends on the courses in which a student is enrolled. Some courses include excursions; others do not. Excursions associated with specific courses involve costs not included with the program fee. In addition to program-sponsored travel, Estonia provides a convenient launching point for individual explorations of all of Europe. Inexpensive airfare and the European rail system connect Tallinn, Estonia, to the great capital cities of Europe including Berlin, London, Moscow, Paris, Prague, Rome and Stockholm. Students can fly direct from Tartu airport to Riga, Latvia, or Stockholm, Sweden, with connections to the rest of Europe.

HIGHLIGHTS
- Use your French daily and improve your speaking and listening skills dramatically
- Develop your knowledge of French literature and culture
- Live with a host family for a complete immersion experience
- Explore Lyon, a vibrant and charming French city with a rich history and beautiful architecture

COURSES
Students will take courses at the Centre International des Études Françaises (CIEF), a language center located in the Université Lumière-Lyon 2 that offers a large array of French language, culture and literature courses for non-native speakers. In addition, students will be required to participate in at least seven activities/events and one trip among those led by the CIEF staff (see examples of events in the section “Extracurricular Activities”). Students will be asked to write a journal entry in French for each of them and to share their experience in an oral presentation in English upon their return at SU.

Before the beginning of the semester, students will be assigned a level and a course track depending on their performance on a placement exam taken at the CIEF. Taking into account grades received in France as well as the grade for the assignments on extracurricular activities and trips, students will be able to earn up to 16 credits and validate up to four SU courses. Students majoring or minoring in French can apply any eligible courses to their major or minor in French. Courses vary from lower-level language courses to upper-level specialized courses depending on individual student’s placement in French and prerequisite coursework at SU.

Course load at the CIEF is 210 hours/semester. In addition, students are required to spend time participating in organized cultural activities, excursions and trips and to complete assignments on their experience.

INTEGRATED SU DEGREE PROGRAMS
French major/minor: All credits from French 201 and above earned on the Salisbury Abroad: France program can count for the French major or minor at SU, according to the academic needs of each student. French majors and minors should contact their academic advisor in French for more details as to how the credits can count in their program.

GRADES AND CREDITS
Full-time equivalent requirement: All students are responsible to make sure they are taking the number of courses/modules that are equivalent to 12 SU credits (or more) during their study abroad semester (fall or spring) at the host institution.

Co-Op Program Credits: Students on this program are assigned grades and credits by the host institution. SU transfers credits and grades. SU GPA is calculated.

HOST INSTITUTION AND CITY
The Université Lumière-Lyon 2 is one of the three universities that comprise the Lyon University System. Its two campuses offer a wide variety of undergraduate and graduate programs in arts, humanities and social sciences to about 30,000 students. The Centre International des Études Françaises (CIEF) is the university’s language center. It is set on the oldest campus, which is composed of old beautiful buildings along the Rhône River. It is centrally located and easily accessible with safe and affordable public transportation. The CIEF, which specializes in French language, culture and literature courses for non-native speakers of all levels, is a member of the Association of Directors of University Centers for French Studies for Foreigners (Association des directeurs de centres universitaires d’études françaises pour étrangers), a renowned French organization whose members follow strict quality guidelines. The CIEF counts around 100 instructors and offers to its 1,400 students an intimate and supportive learning community with a course enrollment of 20 students maximum.

Lyon is an affordable city that offers a large array of cultural events and venues. It is renowned for its film festivals and Past activities have included a cooking class, a riverboat cruise, and other cultural activities designed to engage students in French culture.

Salisbury Abroad: France Business

HIGHLIGHTS
• Study at the world renowned Grenoble Ecole de Management
• Business students have the unprecedented opportunity to earn two bachelor’s degrees from two terrific institutions (Salisbury University and Grenoble Ecole de Management) in only four years
• Live at the foot of the Alps in France
• Exchange students are able to pay regular tuition costs at Salisbury — at a fraction of the cost of a typical study abroad program in France

Salisbury University has a long-standing relationship with Grenoble. SU students are able to obtain a second bachelor’s degree from the Grenoble Ecole de Management (GEM) by studying there during their junior year. Business students studying at GEM during their junior year will graduate in four years and earn two bachelor’s degrees: one from Salisbury and one from Grenoble Ecole de Management. Students may also study at GEM for a single semester, gaining valuable academic and personal experience, as well as a Certificate in International Business (CIB) or a Certificate in Marketing and Advertising, depending on which semester (fall or spring), respectively, they choose.

HOST INSTITUTION
Established in 1984, Grenoble Ecole de Management delivers 40 national and international programs from the undergraduate to the doctoral level. The school is one of the very few, worldwide, to hold a triple accreditation (AACSB, EQUIS and AMBA). The school and its programs are ranked in the top 30 Best European Business Schools according to the Financial Times and consistently rank among the top 50 business programs worldwide.

HOUSING
SU students studying at Grenoble Ecole de Management live in apartments around the city of Grenoble. GEM provides assistance to find suitable lodging. The city has a large population of students and researchers on short-term assignments, and as such, there are many opportunities for housing throughout the city. The school also has a mentoring program to help students with various administrative issues.
Salisbury Abroad: Hong Kong

HIGHLIGHTS
• Study at the highly respected Hong Kong Polytechnic University
• Exchange students pay regular tuitions costs at Salisbury; a fraction of the cost of a typical study abroad program in Hong Kong
• Study in the heart of Hong Kong, the Asian business and commerce hub
• Live in a residence hall with other international students and local students

CITY OF HONG KONG
Hong Kong is a former British colony that is currently a Special Administrative Region of the People’s Republic of China, enclosed by the Pearl River Delta and South China Sea. Hong Kong is known for its expansive skyline and deep natural harbor. With a population of over seven million people, it is one of the most densely populated areas in the world. Hong Kong ranks as the third most important leading international financial center, after London and New York City. According to estimates from both UN and WHO, Hong Kong had the longest life expectancy of any region in the world in 2012.

CLASSES
Hong Kong PolyU offers a full range of business courses available to students from the Perdue School of Business. Since PolyU is AACSB accredited, business students can easily count their upper-level business courses for their majors in the Perdue School, making the Hong Kong semester an ideal choice for junior and senior business majors. All business students should contact the Perdue School of Business for more information, before applying for the Salisbury Abroad: Hong Kong semester program.

Salisbury Abroad: Global Experiences Internship Program

HIGHLIGHTS

• Earn SU credits while interning in major cosmopolitan centers around the world, including Dublin, London, Barcelona, Florence, Milan, Paris, Stockholm, Shanghai and Sydney
• Identify your strengths and plan your professional future while gaining critical global competencies that will help you to thrive in the 21st century global economy
• Access to an extensive network with hundreds of companies and organizations as internship hosts in dozens of different professional industries, with more opportunities opening all the time
• Semester-length internships abroad can cost nearly the same as a regular semester in Salisbury — some leading global cities are more expensive than others, but the cost of the semester interning abroad can be surprisingly close to a semester on SU campus

The Salisbury Abroad: Global Experiences Internship Program can be the culminating experience in your undergraduate program at SU. In many majors, you can apply 4-12 credits of internship toward your major requirements. In addition, you can earn internship credits as free electives that do not count toward your major, minor or General Education, but do count toward the 120 credits required for graduation. In cities like Barcelona, Paris and Florence, you can add a four-credit language course to your semester abroad. In most cases, you can earn a full 12-16 credit semester as a global intern. At the same time, you are living abroad, practicing a new profession, learning about your own professional and personal strengths, and crafting your transition from college student to member of the workforce in the global economy. Do not pass up this opportunity to make your SU education work for you. From coastal Maryland to the world, the Global Experiences Internship Program can be your bridge to the next step in your journey.

COURSES

You need the permission of your academic department in order to earn credits in the Global Experiences Internship Program. The following majors have already identified specific faculty members for you to contact directly about the program:

• Communication Arts: Dr. Darrell Mullins
• Community Health: Dr. Deneen Long-White
• Sports and Exercise Science: Heather Mazzetti

If you are majoring in another area, schedule an appointment with the Study Abroad Advisor, and we will help you find your correct advisor.

In addition to your internship credit, if you intern in Italy, Spain, France or China, you can add four credits of intensive language credit to your semester abroad. If you have never studied the language at all, you can start with the basics. If you have already studied for a few semesters, or if you are majoring or minoring in one of the languages, you can add upper-level elective credit in that language to your semester abroad.

INTEGRATED CURRICULUM

This Global Experiences Internship Program is an integrated education abroad program. This means that you will be directly enrolled in Salisbury University courses in GullNet while you are abroad. The grades that you earn abroad are Salisbury University grades that count toward your SU GPA. In most cases, you can earn 12-16 credits for a full semester internship abroad. Because the program is integrated into the SU curriculum, all your financial aid can be applied to your credit-bearing internship abroad.

Salisbury Abroad: New Zealand Teaching Internship

HIGHLIGHTS
• Elementary and early childhood education students can complete one of their two teaching internships in New Zealand
• Spend eight weeks in the heart of New Zealand situated between mountains and coastline
• Develop your teaching experience in some of the top public schools around the globe
• Live with a host family and gain further insights into life and culture of New Zealand

Elementary education and early childhood education students have the opportunity to complete a portion of their teaching internship in the Tauranga District of New Zealand Public Schools through a collaboration with the University of Waikato. World famous for its education system, and particularly its literacy and mathematics education programs, New Zealand is a truly special place for interns to complete one of their required professional internship experiences. The SU Department of Teacher Education in the Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies has been sending student teachers to New Zealand public schools for nearly 20 years, making it one of SU’s oldest international initiatives. The New Zealand teaching internship program is competitive and enrollment is limited.

UNIVERSITY OF WAIKATO
Times Higher Education ranked the University of Waikato 68th out of 100 “most international” universities in the world. With a student enrollment of just over 12,000, the university offers academic programs on its main campus in the city of Hamilton, as well as in the beautiful seaside community of Tauranga. The Faculty of Education is one of the best in New Zealand higher education with academic programs at the undergraduate, graduate and post-graduate levels. Waikato was the first teachers’ training college to merge with a university. The Waikato Faculty of Education was the first to offer early childhood qualifications and teacher education online programs. According to Moltzen, “the Faculty of Education is determined to be part of these educational developments through the three interconnected disciplines of teaching, research and professional learning.”

INTERNSHIP PLACEMENT
Interns are placed in a school internship at the early childhood or elementary level. The internship meets all requirements of Maryland certification and adheres to the specifications set forth by the Department of Teacher Education at Salisbury University. The Waikato Faculty of Education works in conjunction with SU’s Department of Teacher Education to insure that a placement is designed to fit the participant’s individual and home institutional goals, needs and requirements. With a focus on teaching and learning, interns are assessed on their ability to practice and perform their teaching capability progressively. Mentor (associate) teachers and supervisors

*Cost is only for housing in New Zealand. Students must receive housing in the semester in Maryland in order to complete requirements of semester teaching internship in Maryland.

Contribute to the mission of developing quality educators by conducting evaluations, debriefing lesson observations and providing constructive feedback to candidates. In addition, mentor teachers and supervisors complete all required Salisbury University education assessments online and forward all paperwork to the Department of Teacher Education.

GRADES AND CREDITS

Full-time equivalent requirement: All students are responsible to make sure they are taking the number of courses/modules that are equivalent to 12 SU credits (or more) during their study abroad semester (fall or spring) at the host institution.

Integrated Curriculum: This program is an integrated education abroad program. This means that you will be directly enrolled in Salisbury University courses in GullNet while you are abroad. The grades that you earn are Salisbury University grades that count toward your SU grade point average.

HOUSING

While in New Zealand, interns live with carefully selected host families in Tauranga and the surrounding areas. The University of Waikato works diligently to match interns’ living preferences with homestay hosts and their families who represent modern New Zealand society. The homestay experience is an integral part of the overall program and provides each intern with the opportunity to take part in the daily life of a New Zealand family. Living with host families in New Zealand has been central to the continued success of the New Zealand program and has provided students with opportunities to build relationships that last long after the internship experience is long over.

COSTS

In all cases, students pay their regular SU tuition and fees (resident or non-resident tuition applies). This tuition includes the credits earned for the internship in New Zealand, the online seminar taken concurrently at SU and the remainder of the semester credits for the second internship and seminar completed in Maryland. Additional international internship fees cover University of Waikato administrative fees, mentor and supervisor fees, and homestay fees (including meals). Costs do not cover Maryland mentor fee, personal liability Insurance, airfare or daily incidental costs.

SAMPLE OF AVAILABLE COURSES

All students earn credits for either ELED 421, ELED 422, ECED 455 or ECED 456, depending on whether the placement in New Zealand is a first or second placement and whether it is elementary or early childhood. All students also continue the Internship Seminar (ELED 411) online while in their New Zealand Placement. Students must:

- have completed all methods courses except ELED 427 and ELED 408.
- have an overall GPA of 3.0
- have a program GPA of 3.0

Salisbury Abroad: Scotland

HIGHLIGHTS
• Take classes in fields including accounting, finance, biology, management, communications, computer science, economics, education, English, environmental studies, French, history, math, marketing, philosophy, political science, psychology and sociology
• Live in apartments with other international students gaining insights into both Scottish culture and life in other parts of the globe
• Competitive exchange spot allows you to study and live in the United Kingdom for a fraction of the typical costs
• Study at the world-class University of Stirling and live in the heart of medieval history and modern day beauty

Salisbury University students have the opportunity to study at the beautiful and world globally recognized University of Stirling (US) in Stirling, Scotland. SU students can spend a semester or year studying a variety of disciplines at the Stirling campus. Students may enroll directly or apply for one of the competitive exchange spots. Outgoing SU students continue to pay their tuition and fees at SU as always, and are charged no tuition at US. The number of exchange slots for SU students is limited to two per semester, and selection for the spaces is competitive. SU students not selected for one of the competitive exchange slots are still able to spend a semester or year at US in Scotland as fee-paying study abroad students.

COURSE MODULES
Each semester SU students choose three different academic modules at the University of Stirling. It is recommended that students have up to six modules approved by SU prior to departure. That will allow the student the maximum flexibility upon arrival in Scotland. Each module is generally equivalent to 5 SU credits for a total of 15 credits per semester. Modules are available in a wide variety of disciplines from science and technology to business studies to education to media and history, just to name a few. Students can study abroad during the fall or spring semester, or spend the entire year in Scotland.

For a full listing go to: www.stir.ac.uk/study-abroad-exchanges/module-information

GRADES AND CREDITS
Full-time equivalent requirement: All students are responsible to make sure they are taking the number of courses/modules that are equivalent to 12 SU credits (or more) during their study abroad semester (fall or spring) at the host institution.

Transfer Credits: Students on this program earn transfer credits. Students must earn the equivalent of C or better in the host institution's program. No SU GPA is calculated.

HOST INSTITUTION
The University of Stirling was named Scottish University of the Year for 2009-10. It is a comprehensive university similar in size to SU with just over 8,000 undergraduates and 3,000 graduate students. Nestled in the heart of Scotland, where the highlands and the lowlands meet, Stirling is ideally located approximately 30 miles from both Glasgow and Edinburgh. The city of Stirling is an historic college town with a population of around 45,000, also very comparable to Salisbury. The campus is a combination of old world charm – with the historic 18th century Airthrey Castle located at its very heart – and modern conveniences, including a nine-hole golf course, a small shopping mall, bars and a nightclub, all located right on campus.

HOUSING
All study abroad students at University of Stirling are guaranteed university-owned or -managed accommodations located on or just off campus. Normally that accommodation is a room in an apartment shared with local Scottish students and/or other study abroad students.

COSTS
All students who apply to the Salisbury Abroad: Scotland program are automatically considered for the competitive exchange spot(s). If selected, students pay their regular semester tuition costs. In-state students not selected for the exchange position pay tuition of approximately $8,400.

Salisbury Abroad: South Korea

HIGHLIGHTS

- Immerse yourself in Korean culture and improve your Korean language proficiency
- Take courses taught in English that are integrated into many majors throughout SU
- Study at one of the Republic of Korea’s leading national universities with a world-class reputation
- Live in a residence hall on campus

The Salisbury Abroad: South Korea program offers students the opportunity to spend a semester or year in one of the world’s most ancient civilizations and one of the 21st century’s political and economic powerhouses. SU students have the opportunity to greatly improve their Korean language skills while also continuing to make progress toward their degrees by taking courses in English in a wide variety of courses integrated into majors, minors and the General Education curriculum at SU. Students pay their regular SU tuition and fees and the equivalent of room and board at SU for the same services in Korea.

CLASSES

All students take one course in Korean language either at the beginning level for students with no previous Korean language experience, or at a higher level based on their courses completed or placement exam. In addition, students can take three or four additional classes in English in a variety of disciplines. The School of Business at Chonnam National University is accredited by AACSB, making credits easier to integrate into majors in the Perdue School of Business. Students interested in advancing their Korean language skills may take multiple levels of Korean language during one semester. Students should consult with their major department advisor about the integration of the courses offered into the minor or major. The Center for International Education will assist students to integrate courses into the general education curriculum.

SU students can earn four of five courses for the interdisciplinary minor in East Asian studies during one semester on the Salisbury Abroad: Korea program. For more information on the East Asian studies minor, see the area studies minors website.

HOST UNIVERSITY
Chonnam National University is one of 10 key national universities in the Republic of Korea. It was founded in the early 1950s as South Korea emerged from the Korean War by joining together a number of local universities. Today, it is home to almost approximately 35,000 students including over 1,000 international students. The University is located in the metropolitan center of Gwangju at the most southern end of Korean Republic.

CITY OF GWANGJU
The city was established in 57 BC and has been a major political and economic center of Korea ever since. Gwang means “light” and Ju means “province.” Areas of exquisite scenery along the outskirts of the city gave birth to gasa, a form of Korean classical poetry. Located in the center of the agricultural Jeolla region, the city is also famous for its rich and diverse cuisine. It is also well known as a holy and the most democratic city in South Korea.

Salisbury Abroad: Spain

HIGHLIGHTS

- Experience life in the beautiful city of Malaga – a true Spanish city not overrunning with tourist and next to the Mediterranean Sea
- Live with a host family
- Study courses taught in Spanish and/or English
- Improve your Spanish dramatically in a setting where you are able to use it on a daily basis
- Study in Spain for about the same cost of studying at Salisbury

Málaga is a beautiful and historic beach-lined city of 600,000. It was founded by the Phoenicians in approximately 1000 BC. Through centuries of empire and conquest, Málaga has continued to play a role as a critical Mediterranean port city. In addition to its Phoenician roots, Málaga bears the influence of the Roman Empire and the Muslim heritage of the medieval Umayyad caliphate of Al-Andalus. Nestled on the Mediterranean Sea, Málaga serves as a gateway to the beautiful resort beaches of the country's famous Costa del Sol.

HOST INSTITUTION

UMA is one of the key drivers for development in the autonomous region of Andalucía. The University runs a wide selection of courses in Spanish for foreigners through its Centro Internacional de Español (CIEUMA). CIEUMA is an intimate learning community located just outside the city center in the suburb of El Palo and blocks from the Mediterranean beaches. At the main Teatinos campus and other sites around Downtown Málaga, UMA provides a wide variety of academic programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels to over 40,000 undergraduate and graduate students in 11 different schools. All of the UMA sites are easily connected by clean, safe, and affordable natural-gas powered public transportation.

Salisbury University and the Universidad de Málaga (UMA) regularly engage in the exchange of students and faculty. The program is a bi-lateral international student exchange. So, outgoing SU students continue to pay their tuition and fees at SU as always, and are charged no tuition at UMA.

COURSES

All courses are taught at the beautiful Centro Internacional de Español at the University of Málaga. Students may take all courses in Spanish or a combination of courses taught in Spanish and English. All courses taught in Spanish have been approved for the minor and/or major in Spanish at Salisbury University. Courses taught in English may be approved for any number of programs, including History, Art, International Relations, Political Science, Psychology, European Studies and Interdisciplinary Studies. In addition, a number of courses taught in Spanish and English may satisfy General Education requirements. Students should consult with their study abroad advisor and their academic advisor on the applicability of any course towards their minor or major or General Education program.

GRADES AND CREDITS
Full-time equivalent requirement: All students are responsible to make sure they are taking the number of courses/modules equivalent to 12 SU credits (or more) during their study abroad semester (fall or spring) at the host university.

Transfer Credits: Students must earn the equivalent of C or better in the host institution’s program. No SU GPA is calculated.

HOUSING
Students live and take meals in selected Spanish homes, most of which are situated within a 10-minute walk of the Mediterranean. Salisbury University students have been staying with some of the host families for nearly twenty years. Students can expect and warm and welcoming living environment from their Spanish host families. However, students should not expect a heavy hand from the mothers of their host families. Student mobility among university students is very common throughout Europe. University students and host families expect students to be more independent than might be the norm in the U.S.

PROGRAM TRAVEL
The Salisbury Abroad: Spain program includes no programmed excursions. Easy and affordable public transportation (buses and trains) connect Malaga to the rest of the Andalucia region, including popular cultural sites like Granada’s Alhambra, Córdoba’s Mezquita, Sevilla’s Catedral and Reales Alcázares, and Ronda’s Plaza de toros. Malaga’s international airport provides direct low-cost airfare to popular destinations throughout Europe, making Malaga a strategic launching place for explorations of all of Europe.

COSTS
Students on the University of Málaga program pay regular full-time tuition and fees to Salisbury University and study tuition free at the University of Málaga. Non-resident tuition costs at SU apply to the Salisbury Abroad: Spain program. The combination of tuition, room and board in Spain is roughly equivalent to tuition and on-campus housing with full board on main campus in Salisbury, MD.

Salisbury Abroad: Environmental Field Studies

HIGHLIGHTS
• Gain valuable, hands-on research experience participating in five-year, ongoing research projects established by local community members
• School for Field Studies (SFS) is the leader in global environmental field studies for U.S. undergraduates
• Live at a research station with other students and researchers, implementing environmental research that meets community-defined goals

Salisbury University students have the unique opportunity to spend a semester exploring the environment of their choice by means of field-based learning and research. In these programs that are fully incorporated in the SU curriculum, students earn 16 credits in biology and environmental sciences.

Gain hands-on field experience, practical and transferable research skills, and cross-cultural awareness through SFS programs all around the globe. The School for Field Studies has programs all over the world focused on specific research topics:
• PERU: Biodiversity and Development in the Andes-Amazon
• CAMBODIA: River Ecosystems and Environmental Ethics
• PANAMA: Tropical Island Biodiversity Studies
• COSTA RICA: Sustainable Development Studies
• TANZANIA: Wildlife Management Studies
• BHUTAN: Himalayan Studies
• AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND: Rainforest Studies
• TURKS AND CAICOS ISLANDS: Marine Resource Studies

As a participant in one of these programs, you won’t just read about an environmental problem ...
• You will be part of an international research team working to solve it, whether you are replanting critically fragmented rainforests in Australia or helping Costa Rican farmers transition to organic agriculture.
• You will develop leadership skills, build self-confidence and discover the vital role you can play in the larger global community.
• You will develop personal relationships with members of the local community, putting a human face on the environmental problems you are studying, which is often the most rewarding part of the SFS experience.
• You will be challenged and inspired by the work you do. Your work will make a real difference in a local community and make a positive contribution toward the sustainable use of the world’s natural resources.
• When you finish an SFS program, you will not only walk away with the education of a lifetime, you will never view the world—or yourself—the same way again.

CLASSES & RESEARCH
As a participant in a School for Field Studies program, you take coursework related to research and relevant issues in the region in the first half of the semester. The core program courses of ecology, socioeconomics, and environmental policy, and natural resource management are the lenses that students use to view their chosen five-year research projects and their cases. In the second half of the semester, students participate in a five-year ongoing research project. You choose which of the ongoing, faculty-led field research projects you would like to pursue as the capstone of your experience. Each student develops a research question, collects and analyzes field data, writes up their results in a scientific paper, and presents their findings to local community members and other stakeholders.

GRADES AND CREDITS
Full-time equivalent requirement: All students are responsible to make sure they are taking the number of courses/modules that are equivalent to 12 SU credits (or more) during their study abroad semester (fall or spring) at the host institution.

SFS FINANCIAL AID
Tuition and fees at the School for Field Studies are much higher than at Salisbury University. SFS is committed to making its programs available for everyone. They have a full financial aid program that offers scholarships and low-interest loans to attempt to close the gap between the home tuition at its partner universities and the SFS total cost. SFS awards over $450,000 in financial aid each year, and each applicant is automatically considered for more than 12 scholarships, grants, and loans when they submit an SFS Financial Aid Application. About 90 percent of students who apply for SFS aid receive it. Many SU students have received sizable financial aid packages directly from SFS, which have greatly reduced the difference in cost between a semester at SU and a semester abroad with SFS.

HOUSING
Student housing varies depending on the program location. Students commonly live at a research center, camp, or institute in shared cabins or guesthouse.

SAMPLE OF AVAILABLE COURSES
Students earn 15-16 credits integrated into the biology and/or environmental studies majors and minors at SU depending on program location and course selection:

- BIOL 398 International Topics in Ecology
- BIOL 417 International Research in Biology
- ENVR 349: International Study of Policy, Values and Environment
- ENVR 399: International Study of Resource Management and Sustainability
