Salisbury University / Library Support Center

Library Support Center

The Libraries now have their very own support center! Have a library question, but don't know who to ask? This is the spot. Having trouble accessing an article or e-book? Report it here. Need help with research, have a question about MakerLab services, wondering about a library fine you received? This is the place to ask. Faculty, need to put something on reserve or schedule library instruction? Request it here. There are links from various pages on the Libraries website, but you can always get to it from <https://support.center.salisbury.edu/service/sdesk/customer/portal/5/group/14> or bit.ly/SULibHelp.

She's Baaaaack!

The Finals Fairy will be returning on May 16, leaving gifts for SU students scattered around library spaces daily. Follow her on the Libraries social media to see where she is hiding the gifts. She will give out the grand prize, an Amazon Fire HD 8 tablet, on May 20. And, of course, we will have the Relaxation Station set up on the fourth floor starting May 8, with puzzles, Legos, and coloring books as well as hot drinks and treats. See the schedule for hot drinks and treats in the box on the left side of the Common Privy.

A Fond Farewell

The Common Privy's editor, Bea Hardy, the dean of libraries, is leaving SU after commencement to move closer to family and friends in the D.C.-Baltimore area. She wants to thank SU students, faculty, and staff and especially her library and deans' council colleagues for an amazing 12 years.

Did You Know? The Libraries—and our library consortium—are transitioning to a new integrated library system on May 23. It will change how you search for books, articles, and more. You can check out the changes from the link on the Libraries home page.
